El Ciudadano · 11 de octubre de 2025

Images and videos from the day spread quickly across social media, amplifying calls to bring Benjamin Netanyahu before international courts on charges of war crimes and crimes against humanity.

On Saturday afternoon, thousands marched and rallied in Santiago and other cities across Chile to protest what demonstrators describe as Israel's genocide against the Palestinian population in Gaza.

On the eve of the protest, and as El Ciudadano reported, more than 70 Chilean journalists—including National Award recipients and union leaders—joined the call to march on Saturday, October 11, also denouncing, in a public letter, the killings of Palestinian journalists attributed to Israel.

Throughout the day, images and videos spread rapidly across social networks, amplifying loud demands to bring Benjamin Netanyahu before international courts on charges of war crimes and crimes against humanity.

There were also demonstrations calling for justice for Julia Chuñil. See a selection of posts shared on X (formerly Twitter):

NOW

Thousands upon thousands are marching down the Alameda against genocide and for Palestine. The State of Chile must sever relations with those responsible.

Trump’s peace deal is only a neocolonial project of oppression.
